HONG KONG

From the megamalls found in the Central District to the hip, independent fashion boutiques in Wan Chai, Hong Kong caters to every taste and every budget. —Georgia Freedman

1. LOCKCHA TEA HOUSE

Owner Wing-Chi Ip, who was a pioneer in selling single-origin Chinese teas abroad in the 1980s, opened his shop in 1991. He still sources such teas as Silver Needle, Golden Oolong, and pu'er directly from tea farms himself. K.S. Lo Gallery, Ground Floor, Hong Kong Park, Admiralty, 852/2801-7177, lockcha.com

2. HONEYCHURCH ANTIQUES

Honeychurch is one of the city's oldest and most reputable antique shops. The owner gathers pieces, including Tang Dynasty pottery and this rare Japanese flower basket, from all over Asia. 29 Hollywood Rd., Sheung Wan, 852/2543-2433, honeychurch.com

3. THE UPPER HOUSE

Situated in Admiralty, the Upper House hotel is a short cab ride from the boutiques and galleries in the Central and Sheung Wan neighborhoods and a few blocks from Star Street, the city's newest enclave of restaurants and shops. From $580. Pacific Place, 88 Queensway, Admiralty, 852/3968-1111, upperhouse.com

5. FUNGUS WORKSHOP

"Everything we sell we make by hand," says Baldwin Pui, co-owner of this oddly named leather goods shop. Modern and vintage-inspired satchels, handbags, and wallets are made to order. Smaller items, such as card cases, are ready-to-buy. 4 Po Hing Fong, Sheung Wan, Ground Floor, 852/2779-9003, fungusworkshop.net

4. KAPOK ON SUN STREET

At this eclectic Wan Chai shop, leather bags by California company Marie Turnor are sold alongside locally made bone china tea sets. Some sets feature a toile pattern that incorporates dim sum, ferries, and mah-jongg tiles. 3 Sun St., Ground Floor, Wan Chai, 852/252-00-114, ka-pok.com
